Outback Medicine:
Working with Purpose in Aboriginal Health

Exploring global health opportunities in Aboriginal healthcare in Western Australia

Join us for an inspiring evening in London exploring what it means to deliver healthcare in some of the most remote and culturally rich parts of the world to Australia's First Nations people.

Hear first-hand from doctors, nurses, and health leaders who work with Aboriginal Community Controlled Health Organisations across Western Australia, delivering healthcare that's holistic, community-driven, and deeply rewarding.

What to expect

- Real stories from the frontline
- Insights into remote medicine
- Networking with health leaders
- Career pathways in Aboriginal health
